The Table Turned.

The Island of Moy, situated in the centre of the lake bearing that name in the Highlands of Scotland, is said to have been the scene of a dreadful tragedy. A great battle took place between the Cummins and the Mackintoshes, in which the former were defeated, and, being unable or unwilling to renew the war, peace was proposed and accepted. To celebrate it, the Mackintoshes were invited by the Cummins to a feast in their castle of Moy, the remains of which are still to be seen. It was the secret design of the treacherous hosts to murder their unsuspecting guests, and it was arranged that a Mackintosh should sit, under the pretence of distinction, on the right hand of every Cummins, and that at a preconcerted signal, he was to be murdered by his neighbour. The base plot was, however, privately made known by one of the Cummins to the guests, and when the signal was made the Mackintoshes instantly flung their dirks into the bodies of those beside them, preventing their own assassination by an indiscriminate slaughter of their pretended friends.—See Am. Journal.

Gossip.

Can the evil wrought by gossip be estimated? We think not. A wise woman can scarcely say too little in company if the conversation trenches in the least upon scandal. Many a social, noble-minded woman has been obliged to withdraw herself from a neighborhood intimacy which would have been pleasant otherwise because her remarks were returned by some idle tale-bearer, so perverted as to make her doubt the existence of genuine friendship; and accept loneliness for the sake of the safety it brought. You say we must talk "about something." Yes, and through that very fact we see a remedy for the evil, to so thoroughly interest ourselves in other and better things that we find no space to spare for our neighbor's affairs. Let us talk of our work, our homes, our house plants, our books, or our babies. Let us teach our eyes to find beauty everywhere, while we blind them by constant watchfulness to blemish. Never, under any circumstances, cast the first stone. Then, if any erring neighbour goes down, you cannot blame yourself for assisting the downfall.—See Am. Journal.

Time Flies.

Have you seen those marble statues in some public square or garden which art has so finished into a perennial fountain that through the lips, or through the hands, the clear water flows in a perpetual stream, on and on forever, and the marble stands their, passive, cold, making no effort to arrest the gliding water? It is so that time flies through the hands of men—swift, never pausing till it has run itself out; and there is the man petrified into a marble sleep, not feeling what it is which is passing away forever. It is so brethren, just so, that the destiny of nine men out of ten accomplishes itself, slipping away from them, aimless, useless, until it is too late.—Rodertson.

A. M. MELLIS, Esq.,

Honolulu, Sandwich Islands,

NEW YORK CITY, Dec. 6th, 1881.

Dear Sir: Your valued favor of November 18th is to hand, containing your order to which we have given our closest attention, and you may rest assured we have spared no pains to make this initial order satisfactory, having closely followed your instructions, sincerely hoping by fair dealing to secure your entire patronage in the Clothing Line.

We are willing to make you our Special Agent for the Hawaiian Islands, and consequently can offer you Special Inducements on prices, as we are thoroughly satisfied that a proper representation of our goods will, as has always been the case in the past, take precedence above all other makes of Ready Made Clothing, as we are here, driving our competitors out of the market.

We inclose you a large and varied selection of samples of our Spring and Summer Stock for 1882 now being manufactured. They comprise many Novelties and are especially adapted for the Tropical Climates.

We have shipped your goods as requested via Panama, San Francisco, and by steamer to the care of your Agents, and you will find in this letter your bill of lading, &c. Hoping for an early continuance of your patronage.

We remain, very truly yours,

The International Clothing Co., DONALD FITZGERALD, President.
N. B.—As it is my intention to visit the colonies of Australia shortly, I shall stop to see you on my way. Yours above.

With the above I take pleasure in informing the public that I have opened a full line of

Boots, Shoes and Slippers

of all descriptions and styles, which I will sell at as lower price as this market will admit. Thanking the public in general for past favors received, I shall endeavor, as heretofore, to please them with their wants.
